My name is Brooke Gilley and I am a naturalist at a nature center in Southeast Wisconsin. I have been hunting a long time for the perfect pair of binoculars that work for me. It has been a little bit like searching for a unicorn. I am one of those people that has a really narrow pupillary distance and have to wear children's glasses. So, finding a pair of binoculars that works for my pupillary distance of 52mm has been a struggle, even with porro binoculars that are so heavy. I was lucky to have found the Opticron Discovery 8x32 bins and I am so freaking happy, like over the moon happy.

Thank you, thank you, thank you for making binoculars that work for those with narrow faces. I am a bit shocked and annoyed that other makers of binoculars have not made strides to make optics for people who have a small pupillary distance. I hope in time this becomes more of an industry standard rather than an anomaly.

Thank you for allowing me to find a pair of binoculars that work for me.

Cheers,
Brooke
