

MM4 60 GA ED/45 Travelscope

Álvaro de las Heras (January 2020)

When I think about my ideal scope I wish it to have great optics, small size and lightweight. Finally, with the MM4 60 GA ED I have found it.

Until recently I used to doubt whether or not to carry a scope for my long birding hikings. Since I met this travelscope I don't doubt for a moment, considering its 619gr are almost imperceptible in my backpack.

Either way we must not confuse size with power. The MM4's optics are amazing, giving you a great clarity of the image and good stability, no matter the magnification.

Once using it I can say that I am really happy with its manageability. The tuning wheel works smoothly and I find its fine-tuning focus knob especially helpful.

Whether with good light conditions or without it, you can find bright images with no colour aberrations.

In my case, I spend lots of hours walking through the mountains with all my gear with me, and coming from a long and heavy scope, I can say this is a life-changer. I strongly recommend this scope for nature guides and travellers who carry all their equipment during long field journeys.

Álvaro de las Heras
O-Live EcoBirding Main Guide

